Takes More Soda Pop To Quench Local Thirst

(Special to the Avalanche)

NEW YORK - The bubble, sparkle and fizz business is a big one in Crawford County.

Figures on soft drink consumption in the county reveal that the average person drinks such beverages at the rate of 114 bottles per year.

As for the local population as a whole, it is estimated that less than 570,000 bottles last year, compared with 507,000 in 1927, when similar data was released. This is exclusive of the amount consumed by restaurants.

The rise in the three-year period amounted to 12.4 percent. It was greater than the increase noted generally throughout the United States, which was 11.1 percent.

The data was derived from figures released by the Department of Commerce and from industry reports showing the relative use of soda pop in the nation, state by state.

It is of particular interest at this time because of the recent Government action ordering the labeling of containers so as to indicate their ingredients.

The reports show that people in different areas vary greatly in the soda pop habit. Annual addition in North Dakota, for example, is only a fifth as much as it is in North Carolina.

In the matter of flavor, too, regional preferences are quite marked. In the East, cola-type drinks constitute about 40 percent of the demand, with ginger ale, orange, lemon and fruit flavors being the remainder in the South, on the other hand, 60 percent are cola drinks.

An idea of the importance of the soft drink business in Crawford County is revealed by the dollar figures. They show that local residents spent $46,000 for bottled drinks last year.

Nationally, such sales amounted to more than a billion.

The new labeling order, issued by the Food and Drug Administration, has created some consternation among soft drink manufacturers. Involved are billions of bottles that are now in use.

Some companies are also concerned about their tightly-guarded formulas. They wonder if they will be able to keep them secret under the new regulation.

Canoeist Finds Removal Of State Signs Expensive

Mr. Cunningham was apprehended by Conservation Officer Clarence Roberts several days ago, with one of the fishing regulation signs in his possession. He had been seen tearing the sign down and the Conservation Department was notified.

Robert Davis was also arrested by Officer Roberts and fined June 24th for fishing without a license.

UNPROVED METHODS FOR CANCER CURE SOLD

(Special to the Avalanche)

NEW YORK - Hundreds of unproved methods of treating cancer, ranging from salves and plasters to diets based on lemons, grapes or carrot juice, are being sold throughout the United States to victims of cancer.

An American Cancer Society exhibit at the Coliseum, where the American Medical Association held its annual meeting on June 25 - 30 pinpointed principal locations where so-called cancer "cures" are offered.

The A. C. S. exhibit, titled "Unproved Cancer Therapy: A Continuing Challenge," features a map of the United States indicating representative areas in 35 states where new and unproved cancer treatments have been used from 1920 to 1930. It also stars ten "most active centers" where unproved treatments are currently being used.

Dr. Harold N. Grant, "the Society's Director of Professional Education, identified these centers. Following is a partial list of treatments for cancer offered in Los Angeles: radio-therapy, colonic irrigation, a lemon - based diet, antibiotics.

These "vital-tone" devices, a herbal preparation, aniseism, Carotone and Chicago, Ill., a mullen plant tonic, telephone device, anti-toxin serum, gamma chloride tube, polarity therapy, Detroit, "Fallout" tablets and "Spiritual Guidance," birch ashes in tap water.

Pennsylvania: "Act of God" formula, a diet based on organically grown food, a "skeletal hormone," "Mud" and "Mud" system of rejuvenation, fasting, tension reduction, etc.

Connecticut: zone therapy, anticancer, a water cure and diet with flourless American bread.

"It has been estimated that Americans spend as much as $100,000,000 yearly in unproved cancer remedies," said Dr. Grant, "although the only curative methods of treating cancer are surgery and radiation."

Michigan Witnesses Rare Sight Of The Death Of Nuisance Taxes

THE CERTAINTY OF death and taxes is widely publicized in story and song, but the death of taxes, even though they be "temporary" in nature, is a rare thing indeed.

the taxes, which carried the expiration date when they were passed.

The taxes were practically painless, as taxes go. They levied a penny a pack on cigarettes, 4 percent on the use of telephones and telegraph service; a charge on tobacco products; and additional charges on liquor and beer purchases and the corporation franchise fee.

Some lawmakers had the idea that austerity budgets for some areas of state government, notably higher education and mental health, could be increased and perhaps some of the state's staggering $60 million debt retired if one or more of the taxes were extended.

But no agreement could be reached on the why and wherefore of continuing the taxes, so the Legislature kept heads off. Now come the liquor interests, plus some lawmakers with the proposal that a refund on certain of the taxes be made. The situation that causes the anguish is this: Liquor dealers were assessed the liquor and beer floor stocks when the tax went into effect.

It would be equitable, they say, to refund a similar amount on the floor stocks on hand when the taxes expire.

While the proposal may be a sound logical position, needless to say it was greeted with no great show of enthusiasm when mentioned on the floor by Sen. Charles S. Blundy, D-Detroit, during the last days of the regular session.

The tax on tobacco products was not assessed on floor inventories when passed, so these dealers do not have the problem. The Liquor Control Commission says it is powerless to refund the tax without action by the Legislature. Lawmakers can't get to the problem until the 1962 session, and by that time, the whole thing may be forgotten and better left dead.

JUST FOR THE RECORD, labor unions weren't the only ones to applaud Gov. John B. Swainson's veto of the controversial Unemployment Compensation bill passed by the 1961 Legislature.

editor Willis R. Keasey, also said the people were better off with the bill inoperative.

Said Keasey: "The bill is one of the biggest monstrosities ever passed by the Legislature. . . . The strong voice which undoubtedly caused Swainson to veto the bill came from the business community. Equally vocal were the forces pleading with the Governor to sign the bill, or let it become law without a signature. These belonged to many big and small employers and those interested in the 'economy climate of the state'.

Keasey's point, on which he could find much agreement, was that a percentage of small business would have to pay higher rates under the bill. Merits of the bill, which had as its chief aim the beefing up of the unemployment Compensation Fund, and its drawbacks were debated almost to the point of tedium before Swainson acted. While the labor unions opposed the bill on totally different grounds than did some small businessmen, this relatively quiet but tremendously important segment of the Michigan economy was glad that it did not have to face up to increased costs of any kind.

MR. AVERAGE CONSUMER in Michigan might feel a little sheepish if he contemplates a recent word from J. L. Littlefield, chief of the Food and Nutrition Division of the Department of Agriculture.

Littlefield and his boss, Agriculture Director George S. McIntire, urged buyers to beware of advertising that ballyhooes a "king size quart," a "full pound," a "giant gallon" and the like.

A pound is a pound, the officials said, and the same goes for any other unit of measure.

Law requires that anything sold as a pound really be a full pound. The size of a pint, quart, gallon or any other standard unit of measure is also spelled out in the statutes, so any billing that hints of a bonus is deceptive, the officials said.

While everybody seeks a bargain, common sense would dictate that advertising of the "full pound" type is really only a gimmick.

Lake so many other things right under our noses, this obvious truism escapes us too easily, and it takes the prompting from an official quarter to bring things into focus.

Water, Water... Everywhere!

"It pours down from the skies in vast quantities... at times it floods over large areas of the nation... yet today our top problem in conservation is... water."

This vivid sentence leads off an article by Robert B. Keane in Service, a publication of Cities Service Company. Mr. Keane has an odd and fundamental story to tell, and one which is full of contradictions. At times residents of cities have been forced to buy water from tank trucks at 50 cents a gallon. Heavy penalties have been prescribed for such things as leaking faucets. Schools and factories have been closed for lack of water, and it is commonplace for restrictions to be placed on garden sprinkling and car washing in many parts of the country each summer.

Yet at the same time, as Mr. Keane observes, water is the most abundant commodity on earth except for air. In this country precipitation accounts for the almost unimaginable quantity of 4,300 billion gallons a day which, if all were saved, would cover the whole country to a depth of thirty inches in a year.

The question, as Mr. Keane puts it, is, "Why such scarcity, in the midst of apparent abundance?" He proceeds to give some answers.

First of all, most of the world's water contains too much salt to be usable. You can't drink it, or give it to animals, and it is unfit for many industrial uses as well. Much work is being done in processes that will eliminate brackishness, but the cost, as yet, is very high.

Second, our rainfall, abundant as it appears to be, is an uneven thing. We get too much water in one area, and not enough in another. It often comes at the wrong time. In many regions it floods on to the sea, and is wasted so far as individuals, agriculture and industry are concerned.

Third, evaporation and absorption account for huge amounts of the total fall. In fact, Mr. Keane says, these, added to runoff, reduce the available national supply to some 500 billion gallons a day. And much of this isn't available for consumers.

On top of all this, our use of water — in homes, industries, on the farms — is next to incredible. Thousands of gallons are used to make just one ton of steel or aluminum. A ton of explosives calls for 200,000 gallons. All in all, industrial demands now run to 160 billion gallons a day. Fortunately, much of the water used by industry goes back into the lakes or rivers from which it came.

The problem grows greater by the year. By 1980, Mr. Keane reports, population growth plus greater per capita consumption is expected to increase the nation's daily needs to 600 billion gallons a day. And a Senate committee has estimated that to prepare for these 1980 needs will cost $54 billion.

The outlook, however, is far from bleak. Concentrated work is being done in search of economical means to reclaim and purify water not now usable. And science, Mr. Keane says, is laboring away in other directions. For example, the search is on for a means of guiding rainfall away from areas which don't need it into those which do. His conclusion: "So hopeful are our scientists that they visualize not only sufficient water in the future to serve the needs of all our communities, industries, and present farm areas — but enough to reclaim vast arid areas of great potential value. 'The deserts,' they promise, 'will become rich in vegetation.'"

Michigan's Water Supply Very Abundant

The second in a series of comments, presented as a tribute by the Michigan Press Association, of which your newspaper is a member, and the Michigan Economic Development Council, appears in today's paper.

Based on the theme, "Michigan Is Everything," the series tribute to Michigan's resources is devoted to most industry seeking available locations for plants.

Today's advertisement, "Michigan's abundant water supply, essential to most manufacturing processes, plus the living water, flowing advantageously," is a tribute to Michigan's water supply.

While the amount of water available to the industry varies from 10 to 25 gallons needed to make a ton of steel to 25 gallons to produce a gallon of gasoline, water is a most important requirement for every industry.

"Michigan, long known as Water Wonderland, has this vital natural resource in quantities sufficient to meet all demands," says Jack C. Smith, president of the Michigan Manufacturers' Association.

He points out that the abundance of Michigan's water is important, but it is even more important that we let everyone know what her water offers.

"Water, unlimited, is just what you need."

Osage Hospital Group Plans 11th Annual Fiesta

The Osage County Memorial Hospital Association Auxiliary is planning for their 11th annual Fiesta to be held on Saturday, July 15th.

This year the affair will be a "Food Fiesta" featuring the home-made specialties of over 700 of the county's homemakers; cakes, pies, jams and jellies, candies, cookies, sweet rolls and coffee cakes, home-canned fruits and vegetables. It will probably be the largest home sale in the history of Northern Michigan with over 2,000 delicacies to tempt the palate.

Under gay yellow canopies, the Food Fiesta will be held on the Courthouse Lawn in the heart of downtown Gaylord from 10 a.m. until approximately 6 p.m. Entertainment for children, rides, balloons, etc. will be featured as well as valuable prizes which will be awarded to lucky winners. Refreshment booths will be ready to serve pie, cake, ice cream, pop and coffee.

Chairman of the event and President of the Auxiliary this year is Mrs. Louis E. Hayes, former resident of Gaylord.

Last year the proceeds from the Fiesta were used for the purchase of new kitchen equipment for the Hospital.

Chamber of Commerce Minutes

Regular Board of Directors Meeting, 8 June 1961.

Members Present: Rochette, Wolff, Johnson, Latuszek, Schulze, Bond, DuBois, Jackson.

Members Absent: Gust.

This meeting was called to order by President Rochette at 5:05 p.m.

Motion by Bond and seconded by Wolff that the minutes of the last meeting be accepted as printed.

Treasurer's report was made by DuBois.

The first item on the agenda was the requested support of the chamber to the Lake Michigan Association. Mr. Charles Holtcamp failed to appear at this meeting to explain the needs of the association. No action was possible.

A complete cost breakdown was given to the board of the past sports car race.

The letters that were written requesting aid to prevent the removal of the Beeline from service by the New York Central Railroad were read to the board. It was felt that a committee from the Chamber membership should attend the hearing to be held in Gaylord 15 June 1961 by the Michigan Public Service Commission. Director Herb Wolff will chair this meeting and furnish the transportation. The following were to be contacted to represent the chamber: Jim Forbes, O. E. Williamson, Emil Giegling, Al Roberts and Mayor McWilliams.

The past two weeks of concentrated effort to collect the unpaid dues totaling only $18.00. This Board decided that closing of the Chamber should be delayed until the next meeting and it at that time more money has not been collected. The dues should be closed for July and August.

Motion by Schulze and seconded by Bond that this meeting be adjourned at 8:20 p.m.

School's Out!

Any motorist who has had the unfortunate experience of running over a dog with his car knows how unpredictable an animal can be in the time of danger.

Why is this? It is simply because a playful animal just doesn't realize the danger to its life as an approaching automobile can be. Often as not he acts on a fear impulse, runs in the wrong direction and right under the car's wheels.

If the motorist can't stop in time, an animal can be killed or badly injured by the impact that even a small car can cause.

A motorist driving his car where children are present during these Summer vacation months must realize that the burden of caution is on him. Children engrossed in play are like playful puppies, unaware of danger, and just as unpredictable.

The extra-low speed limits of school zones were not designed by legislators to harass motorists. They are there as an emergency — such as a carefree child dashing unexpectedly onto the road — a motorist can stop abruptly.

Give children at the roadside a wide berth, especially those youngsters riding two-wheelers that can suddenly lose their balance and fall in front of your vehicle. And slow down when passing groups of children on the highway where no signs order you to.

It's better to lose a little time than a youngster. Don't you agree?

Now hear this, boaters: All hands on deck for a few simple, basic Rules of the Road in addition to those shown above. When overtaking another boat you must keep clear of the craft you're passing. Boats coming out of slips into open water, or leaving berths at piers and wharves, have no rights until they are entirely clear. Fishing boats have right of way whether they are anchored or underway with nets, lines or trawls out. Take it easy when passing a fishing party. Under Michigan law, water skiing, sledding, and surfboarding by boat are prohibited from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise. One last reminder before shoving off: Written rules give you certain rights, but don't insist upon them when it will lead to confusion or possibly an accident. Always respect the rights of other boaters to the hilt and be ready to give in a little on yours for the sake of safety.

LANSGING, June — Although which it's wise not to always insist on your right of way.

2. Crossing. A motorboat which has another boat in its so-called "danger zone" — close up and coming from the right—must give way to it by altering course to pass behind its stern or by slowing down, stopping or reversing.

4. Leaving Slips, Wharves and Piers. Boats coming out of slips into open water, or leaving berths at piers and wharves, have no rights until they are entirely clear. Therefore, they must proceed with caution and at low speed.

5. Sailboats. Sailboats always have the right of way over power boats except when overtaking these craft. Courtesy also requires that sailboats be given a wide berth while racing. If you have to pass close to a sailboat, do so slowly and on the leeward side to cause the least possible disturbance to wind currents or by the wake of your boat.

6. Fishing Boats. These have right of way whether they are anchored or underway with nets, lines or trawls out. Take it easy when passing a fishing party.

7. Although under certain circumstances power boats have the right of way over tugs with barges in tow, it is not only good manners but sound seamanship to yield the right of way. A small motorboat is a good deal more maneuverable than a string of barges.

8. Accidents. In cases of collisions, capsizings, fire or other serious accidents, it is the duty of boaters to stand by and lend assistance.

In addition to these eight basic rules of the water roads, Michigan has several specific ones backed by law.

Michigan's boat law requires that boat operators involved in accidents causing injury or death, or property damage of $50 or more, must give their names, addresses and registration numbers of their craft to those involved in the accident. If the boat is rented or borrowed, they must also give the name and address of the owner. If anyone is injured, the operator must render help and transport the person or persons to a physician or surgeon if further treatment is necessary or requested. In any case the operator must also report the accident either to a peace officer, the nearest State Police office, or the sheriff of the county in which it occurred.

In accidents involving property damage of less than $50, the operators involved must again give their names, addresses and boat registration numbers and the name and address of the craft's owner if it is rented or borrowed.

Water skiing, water sledding, and surfboarding are prohibited from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise. Motorboats must be equipped with mufflers to eliminate excessive or unusual noise. Persons mooring or fastening their boats to lawfully-placed buoys or beacons or intentionally damaging either of these are liable to civil penalties.

Love that tourist!

WORTH
IN GOLD!

You might not guess it from the blue jeans and sneakers, but here's a fellow who spent 650 million dollars in our state last year: Our paying guest, the Michigan tourist.

You might spot him romping happily in one of our 11,037 inland lakes. Or whipping a line into a hidden trout stream. Exploring a chunk of our nineteen-million-acre woodlands. Or serenely afloat in a shade-guarded hammock.

He's here to get with it—or get away from it all. And he pays us well for the privilege.

What's it got to do with you? Just this: The tourist who visits our community helps all of us to a better living. So let your hospitality show. Check your Chamber of Commerce or Tourist Association on upcoming events you can help boost. And let your native friendliness make our touring guest hate to leave... and want to come back.

Love that tourist:
He is worth his weight in gold.

ANOTHER BIG REASON BEHIND THE BIG BOOM IN FORD SALES:

No other wagon can match
Ford's features (or popularity!)

There's a whole wagonload of Ford features that only America's station wagon specialists can bring you.

First, there's more room. Ford's extended load deck is the longest and widest in its field. The tailgate opening is seven inches wider than last year, too. There's more convenience. You can have an electrically controlled roll-down rear window in any Ford wagon... it's standard in all Country Squires and 9- Passenger Country Sedans. In their field, only Ford wagons have all seats facing forward. There's more distinction. The Country Squire (shown above) is the one and only wagon in its field with body panels that look like mahogany, wear like steel.

There are more savings, too. Ford's Ranch Wagon is America's lowest-priced,* full-size wagon. And like all Fords, every Ford wagon is built to be more service-free: Goes 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications, 4,000 miles between oil changes, brakes adjust automatically, mufflers are made to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers, and the finish never needs waxing.

STOP putting off that station wagon you've always wanted. SWAP for a '61 Ford wagon now while your Ford Dealer's celebrating record-breaking sales. SAVE with the wagon America loves most... made by FORD... America's station wagon specialists for 32 years!

Today is the day to STOP...SWAP...SAVE

CAMP GRAYLING
Major Gen. Lloyd R. Moser, Commander of the 46th Infantry Division, visited the camp Monday for "observational" training. Gen. Moser, 56, toured the areas at Camp Grayling Monday afternoon.

"I have visited a few states already this summer," Moser said later, "and I must say I have not found a better field than Michigan's 46th Infantry Division."

He was equally impressed by the physical facilities of the 46th Infantry Division. "It is superb," he told reporters.

"The first thing I noticed when I came here was the division or non-division training."

He complimented Cecil J. Kennedy, General of the 46th Division, for the ambitious training of the camp.

Gen. Moser said the other division to his division will attempt to place a division with live ammunition and the combat training of the 46th Division is unique in Fifth Army units.

Gen. Moser was enthusiastic about the new camp facility for tank gunnery. "It is first class," he said. "I have never seen a better facility anywhere."

Gen. Moser will be able to observe the training of the 46th Division in the South. He is responsible for the training at 21 states.

A cordial invitation to all interested women to attend this meeting. Refreshments will be served.

SERVICES HELD
MRS. CORA MEECH

Funeral services for Mrs. Cora Meech were held at 2 o'clock at the Grayling Lutheran Church, with Elmer Schick officiating. Burial was in the Grayling Lutheran Cemetery. Mrs. Meech was 84 years old.
